Disaster Alert for the States of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has issued emergency declarations for the States of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, due to Hurricane Florence. The National Weather Service is expecting landfall of this storm as early as Thursday evening.

In anticipation of Hurricane Florence, Planet Home Lending (“Planet”) is suspending loan purchases in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, effective immediately and until further notice.

Property Inspection requirements will be communicated at a future date, when the full effect of the hurricane has been determined.

We will continue to monitor for any updates and communicate updated information accordingly.
